

HAUGHT-BUNFILL
FAMILIES

(ADDIS, CHAPMAN, EDDY, REED, WARNER)

This history has been made possible by the assistance of many members of the family as well as records and documents.

Part of the Haught family history comes from "The Geneology of the Haught Family of America".

Peter Haught I was born at Rotterdam, Holland in 1720. He married there about 1747, and sailed from there for America on the ship Patience, whose captain was Hugh Stock. He landed at Philadelphia on September 8, 1751, with his wife and daughter Elizabeth. The list of passengers included the name Peter Haut.

Peter Haught settled near the present town of Moorefield, in what is now Hardy County, West Virginia, at some time prior to 1755. Peter Haught II, son of Peter Haught I, was born in the South Branch Valley July, 1755. At that time Lord Fairfax held land grants from the King of England which covered several thousand acres on the south of the Potamac River. When settlers began to locate in that section of Virginia, Lord Fairfax had his lands surveyed by George Washington in 1747 and 1748 and laid out in quantities to suit the settlers. Yet his plan was not to sell but to rent on a very liberal basis, thus assuring himself of a definite income. He gave ninety-nine year leases at a rental of $3.33 per year for each hundred acres.

During the Revolutionary War the Commonwealth of Virginia enacted laws against estates entail, which abolished the system of perpetual rents, and at the close of the Revolution, all the Fairfax lands were confiscated by Virginia. The Fairfax lands included most of the South Branch Valley. It was in this valley that Peter Haught, and doubtless his three or more brothers had settled, at least twenty years before the Revolutionary War. When Virginia took over the lands, any settler who did not have a title bond or other evidence of ownership, was regarded as a "squatter" and his claim for land was not recognized. This may be the reason why no evidence of property rights in the name of Peter Haught have been found of record. Peter Haught I continued his residence in the South Branch Valley, as far as is known, until the time of his death.

Peter Haught I was born 1720, m. 1747, wife's name unknown, in Rotterdam, Holland
