Jemima Wolfe Fletcher 1840-1922

Jemima Anna Wolfe was born January 9, 1840 the eldest daughter of Philip Wolfe Jr. & Elizabeth Meek Wolfe. She had older brothers, Lambert, Jacob, Milton; two younger brothers: Joseph and Philip and a younger sister Margaret. Their mother died at age 38, 1847 leaving these children motherless. Their home was at Evansburg somewhere east of Orange in Oxford Township, Coshocton County. A little later Jemima's father re-married and three more half sisters were added to the family Harriet, Henrietta and Sarah Jane. Their father was a tanner a harness maker and farmer. Their heritage was always referred to as Pennsylvania Dutch.

I presume Jemima's youth was one of hardship and no doubt poverty. She lived and worked at Wolfe's tavern at what we know as Isleta Corners. In those days a tavern was an overnight stop for travelers and drovers - not necessarily a drinking joint as we think today. It is said her last duty of the day was to check the barns to be sure all animals had been fed, gates and doors closed etc.

In appearance Jemima was a petite red haired lady. On her 26th birthday she married David D. Fletcher; Jan 9, 1866. She went to the Fletcher family home where David resided with his mother, Catherine Trimmer Fletcher. This mother-in-law died June 1, 1880.

Jemima and David had two children; Anna May married Frank Waggoner and John Edwin married Florence Bartlett. They enjoyed nine grandchildren. I am one of them and was privileged to live next door so saw them often in my early years.

Jemima loved flowers and had many house plants as well as out door flowers. I remember a flowering arbor over their out door pump. Another memory of a mean Turkey Gobbler we had to watch out for.

Both Grandmother and Grandfather died several months apart in 1922 and are buried in Fairfield-west Sabaspitt.

Philip Wolfe Sr and Anna Margaret Wiggner Wolfe come to Coshocton County in 1810 purchasing 250 acres of land at $1.75 per acre in Oxford Twp. on State Road. It was known as Wolfe's Corner. It later became known as Emerson's Corner. U. S. Grant Emerson had married Carrie Wolfe, the daughter of Henry (son of Philip Sr) Wolfe and his wife Elizabeth Fletcher (daughter of Adam & Catherine) Wolfe.

Philip and Anna Margaret conducted an Inn on this corner known as Washington Inn. Philip died in 1825. Anna Margaret and family kept the Inn going for many years. She died in 1855.

Henry Wolfe 1819

Henry W. The eleventh child of Anna Margaret W. Wolfe, was born at White Eyes Plains (now Isleta) in 1819 and was a farmer of great ambition throughout his entire life.

He became possessor of the old home place and maintained it in a way to give credit to the name.

For many years the farm of Henry and William were undivided working to the interest of each other, and to one common end.

Henry W. was married to Elizabeth Fletcher 1852 (a resident of the same township.)

The old tavern was torn away and the site occupied by a lovely mansion in the form of a square, with kitchen etc.

The W. was an up-to-date man and believed in progressing with the times.

And his surroundings were just proof of the fact.

Mr Wolfe died about 15 years previous to the death of his husband. And it seems as if the "old man" never could forget or give up his ever faithful partner in life and sought contentment in long hours of labor upon his farm.

The family were members of the M. P. Church near by. And the services conducted here with Martin, his wife, son and daughter sailed for America in the ship "Friendship", March 16, 1740. The ship landed in Philadelphia, Sept. 25, 1740. Martin, wife and daughter died at sea of the dreaded black plague (cholera), buried at sea - only Jacob, the 8 year old boy survived.

The Wagners were originally from Germany but had moved to Basel, Switzerland, to escape persecution as their schools and churches were burned. Their home was in the Rhine Valley in southern Germany, better known as the Palatinate. It is thought that the boy Jacob possibly had an English school teacher, and his name was changed to Waggoner.

Jacob Waggoner married Catherine Bauer (she was Swiss) - had 12 children. 4th child was Philip Waggoner who married Elizaeth Wolfe and emigrated to Ohio in 1806--9th child was Anna Margaret who married Philip Wolfe, Sr. - came to Ohio soon after.

Brother and sister married brother and sister and I (Edna) am descended from both lines -- my father from the Philip Waggoner line; my mother from the Philip Wolfe line.

auctions and muster day drills. Fourth of July celebrations were attended by everyone for miles around. The tavern was indeed the hub of all activity.

Charles Williams tavern is considered the first in the county. He came with his family and several others as early as 1800. His two story house stood near the northeast corner of Water and Chestnut streets, fronting the river, where Williams operated a ferry. Joining the house on the south was a log cabin in which Adam Johnston, his son-in-law, kept store for Hedges and Hammond. On the north, another log cabin served as the tavern. The Williams family occupied the 1st floor of the house, and the 2nd floor was used as a meeting house, jail, fort, storeroom, schoolhouse, ballroom or courthouse.

When courts were held here Williams was said to have received $30 a year rent for the room, and $2 a term for the room occupied by the jury.

Permit was granted to Charles Williams, Esq. on the 10th day of May, 1811, to keep Tavern in the Town of Coshockton until the next meeting of the Court of Common Pleas, said county, which will be on the second day of September, next for which he paid into the county treasury $2.92. Permit granted to the said Charles Williams, Esq., on the 10th day of May 1811, to keep Ferry over the Muskingum river at the Town of Coshockton from the date thereof until the next meeting of the Court of Common Pleas in said county which will be the second day of September next, for which he paid into the treasury $1.33 1/4.

On May 13, 1811, John Wamsley was granted a tavern license to keep tavern in Franklin township. He hung out the Sign of the Black Horse, on the road between Coshockton and Zanesville. The same year licenses were issued to James Craig, John Junkins and Phillip Wolf.

Phillip Wolf came to Oxford township about 1807, with his wife (Margaret Wagner) and children. They first settled in a log cabin on the south side of the Cadiz-Coshockton road. Here they fired the brick for a home and tavern, which they built on the north side of the road. This tavern stood until the white frame, now owned by the Pope family, was built in 1875.

This was a drovers tavern, called the George Washington Inn. The sign had a picture of George Washington on a white horse. George Leighninger, son-in-law of Wolf, kept bar here.

Phillip Wolf died in 1825, but his widow continued the tavern until 1838, and perhaps longer. She died in 1855.

The last chore of the evening for Widow Wolf, was taking the old pierced tin lantern out with her to check all the gates so the drover's stock could not get out. She once rode horseback to pay her taxes, then found out she was a couple cents short, so she made a second trip with the amount due. A special act of Legislature created a road from Millersburg, in Holmes County, to Widow Wolf's Tavern.

V. Heber Sargent's grandfather came from England, and got as far as Wolf's tavern when his money ran out. He rented a back room at the inn, and set up a shoe shop.

The Democratic Standard of January 15, 1897 tells the story of Henry Wolf, son of Phillip and Margaret:

"Uncle Henry Wolf, who resides in a beautiful home on the Plains, near Isleta, informs us that he has lived in practically the same spot all his life—78 years.

In 1819 he was born in a log cabin which stood just across the road from his present residence. Later his father built a brick dwelling, and in this home he lived, boy and man, until it was replaced some years ago by his present, handsome, modern residence. In those days the plains was covered with a dense growth of brush which grew about as tall as a full grown deer, and Uncle Henry himself has shot a large number of them. So long as the deer remained quiet he was concealed by the brush, but the moment he began to escape from the hunter, he was compelled to spring over the thick growths and his whereabouts was discovered.

Each fall the Indians, who were numerous, burned the heather, and thus many deer were captured. The howl of the wolf was frequently heard at night, and occasionally Henry and his young brother would have to go to the woodland to protect the sheep from these midnight marauders. All of which sounds strange to these closing days of the century. A wonderful experience that which reaches across the century from which the wild red man and a howling wilderness at one end, to electricity and a grand civilization at the other."

A farm sale, held at the site of the old Wolf tavern about 1910 brought to light a Conestoga wagon, which had been stored in the rafters of an outbuilding. It sold for 25c. Rather a sad ending! Probably the final closing for the scene of the tavern was the removal of the watering trough from the middle of the cross-roads.

Tavern licenses were issued to Asher Hart, James Hunter

"ENTERTAINMENT FOR MAN AND BEAST" D. H. ...

Albert Fletcher Wolfe acquired a common-school education, and was engaged in farming until 1891, when he became connected with the hardware business at New Comerstown, being thus engaged for four years. On the expiration of that period he returned to the farm and has since successfully carried on his agricultural interests. His place comprises ninety-seven acres of rich and productive land, the fields annually returning to him golden harvests as a reward for the care and labor he bestows upon them.

On the 7th of January, 1897, Mr. Wolfe was united in marriage to Miss Jane Dever, whose birth occurred in New Comerstown, Ohio, June 4, 1868, her parents being William and Elizabeth (Cutler) Dever. The father's birth occurred in Jefferson county, Ohio, December 13, 1839, and in 1861 he enlisted as a member of Company A, Fifth West Virginia Cavalry, serving as a loyal defender of the Union until the close of hostilities and being honorably discharged in the fall of 1865. His father and four of his brothers also participated in the Civil war. He passed away in New Comerstown, September 22, 1897, and is still survived by his wife, who resides with a daughter in Coshocton, Ohio, her natal day being July 16, 1841. Mrs. Wolfe's maternal ancestors came from England and she can trace them back in direct line to the latter part of the sixteenth century. She attended Oberlin College for two years and is a well read and public-spirited lady. She was the eldest in a family of six children. Alsie is the wife of Fred Timmons. May is a special agent for the bureau of labor in the department of commerce and labor at Washington, D. C., and is traveling continually. Zoia H., Harriet and William are all deceased. Unto our subject and his wife have been born two children: Henry Cutler, whose birth occurred January 11, 1898; and Edwin Moulton, born May 29, 1900.

In his political views Mr. Wolfe is a staunch republican and has served as township treasurer, while fraternally he is connected with New Comerstown Lodge, No. 445, I. O. O. F., at New Comerstown. Both he and his wife are members of the Methodist Protestant church at New Comerstown, and are highly esteemed and respected residents of the community, having gained the kindly regard of all with whom they have come in contact by reason of their genuine personal worth and excellent traits of heart and mind. Moreover Mr. Wolfe is a worthy representative of an honored pioneer family of this county, the name having been closely associated with its annals from an early period down to the present time.

line of his profession he has since 1882 been identified with the Ohio State Pharmaceutical Association. He also belongs to the Maccabees, being a member of Warsaw Lodge, No. 268, of which he served as commander for ten years. He is recognized as a leader in both social and business circles and is deeply interested in any good work that tends toward the betterment of his town and community. Few men are more prominent or more widely known in the enterprising city of Warsaw than is Mr. Lawson, for throughout a long period he has been an important factor in its business life and the prosperity which he today enjoys is well deserved.

ALBERT FLETCHER WOLFE.

Albert Fletcher Wolfe, who is successfully engaged in agricultural pursuits in Oxford township, was born on the farm where he still resides, on the 27th of October, 1858, his parents being Henry and Elizabeth (Fletcher) Wolfe. The paternal grandparents of our subject were Philip and Anna Margaret (Waggoner) Wolfe. The grandfather, who was born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, in 1773, came to Coshocton county, Ohio, in 1810, purchasing two hundred and fifty acres of land at a dollar and seventy-five cents per acre, the tract being located in Oxford township on the old state road. It is now a part of our subject's farm. Philip Wolfe conducted an inn known as the Washington Inn, and Albert F. Wolfe still has in his possession the sign which hung before the tavern. The grandfather died on his farm in this county on the 9th of September, 1825, and subsequently his wife kept the family together and conducted the inn until she, too, was called to her final rest, her demise occurring September 27, ~~1827~~ 1855.
Their son, Henry Wolfe, was born on the old homestead farm in Oxford township, February 11, 1819, and when he had reached mature years began farming on a part of his father's estate. He met with a gratifying degree of prosperity in his undertakings and at the time of his death owned more than four hundred acres of as fine land as can be found in Coshocton county.
Both he and his wife were life-long members of the Methodist Protestant church, in the faith of which he passed away in April, 1899. His wife, whose birth occurred in 1833, had attained the age of fifty-two years when called to the home beyond. Unto this worthy couple were born five children, namely: Eliza, the wife of Hamilton Birney Malona, the wife of Thomas Leland, of Isleta, Ohio; Albert F., of this review; one who is deceased; and Carrie, who is the wife of Grant Emerson and resides in New Comerstown.

"Ohio in the War," the "Military History of Ohio," and countless other chronicles of the years from Sumter to Appomattox. To give complete individual representation by naming the soldiers of Coshocton County is the most that can be undertaken within the allotted space; and the compilation herein is the result of the combined contributions of men who went through those historic days—John M. Compton, W. H. King, A. H. Thomson, Joseph Love, T. H. Glover—amplified by the records of the State Roster Commission and the last county returns canvassed by Auditor C. R. Randles. A few enlistments from Tuscarawas and other adjoining counties are retained in the company rosters.

The Fifty-first Ohio bore honorable part in these engagements: Dobson's Ferry, Tenn., Dec. 9, 1862 (Cos. D, F and I.) Stone River, Tenn., Dec. 31, 1862, to Jan. 2, 1863. Rosecrans' Campaign from Murfreesboro to Tullahoma, Tenn.,

On the Atlanta campaign from Resaca to Jonesboro the Fifty-first was almost daily under fire. One of the regiments sent back to drive Hood out of Tennessee it fought at Spring Hill, was in reserve at Franklin, engaged in both days' fighting at Nashville, and pursued Hood's retreat, knee deep in mud and water, to Lexington, Ala., then camped at Huntsville, Ala., went by rail to Strawberry Plains, and returned to Nashville. The regiment was assigned to duty at Victoria, Tex., until mustered out.

engaged in general farming and is numbered among the county's most progressive citizens.

Mr. Robinson was married April 28, 1881, to Miss Elnora Lee, a daughter of Dr. Samuel H. and Anna (Triplet) Lee, of Coshocton. Their union was blessed with a son and daughter, James L. and Elizabeth L. The wife and mother was called to her final rest June 25, 1887. On the 6th of August, 1890, Mr. Robinson was again married, his second union being with Helen E. Kyle, a daughter of Rev. John and Sarah (Gordon) Kyle, who were former residents of Granville, Ohio, but now make their home in Riverside, California. The Kyles established their home in the Buckeye state in 1858, coming thence from Vershire, Vermont.

Mr. Robinson is a republican in his political views. He is interested in the welfare of the country at large and is ever found on the side of right, reform and progress. He is highly esteemed in the community in which he has so long made his home, numbering his friends by the score.

MILTON N. WOLFE.

Milton N. Wolfe, who is now living retired in West Lafayette, Ohio, has been identified with both the mercantile and agriculture interests of this section of the state. He was born in Evansburg, Oxford township, Coshocton county, August 24, 1837, the third son and third in order of birth in a family of seven children born unto Philip and Elizabeth (Meek) Wolfe. The father was born in Pennsylvania in 1806, and the mother in Jefferson county, Ohio, in 1808, being the daughter of Jacob Meek, an old time Methodist Episcopal minister and a soldier of the war of 1812. Philip Wolfe was a tanner and harnessmaker by trade, following those occupations in Evansburg, Coshocton county, until death, which occurred October 7, 1854. The mother of our subject died April 16, 1847. In their family were seven children: Lambert B., a resident of Ness City, Kansas; Jacob, who died August 21, 1836; Milton N., of this review; Mrs. Jemima Fletcher, of Isleta, Coshocton county; Mrs. Margaret E. Thompson, of West Lafayette; Joseph G., of Almira, Washington; and Philip H., who was a member of Company E, Fifty-first Ohio Volunteer Infantry and who died and was buried in Murfreesboro, Tennessee, National Cemetery, May 8, 1864. His brother, Milton, placed a tablet in his family bronze monument which stands in Fairview cemetery, West Lafayette, Ohio, to the memory of his brother Philip H. Wolfe. After the death of his first wife, the father of these children married Mrs. Caroline (Powell) Spalding. By Mr. Spalding she had three children, Thomas, Freeman and Lyman. By Philip Wolfe she had three children, half-sisters to the three boys mentioned above; Mrs. Harriet Dana, a resident of Fairfield, Iowa; Mrs. Henrietta Criswell, of Hastings, Nebraska; and Mrs. Sarah Jane Huff, of New Comerstown, Ohio. Not only our subject but also his three brothers and his three step-brothers were soldiers of the Civil war, and one of the former and all of the latter laid down their lives on the altar of their country. Philip Wolfe and his second wife both died of typhoid fever and were buried on the same day, October 9, 1854, in Evansburg cemetery, and in October, 1907, their remains were removed to Fairview cemetery, West Lafayette, Ohio, and interred by Milton N. Wolfe in his cemetery lot.

Milton N. Wolfe acquired his education in the common schools but labored mostly with his father in his tanyard until he was sixteen years old, and then at the harness trade with his father until his demise. Following his father's death, however, he took up the shoemaker's trade and after completing his term of indenture worked at the same in Orange, Coshocton county, for two years. He then engaged in the same business on his own account for several years. Having heard favorable reports concerning the western country, he started for Kansas in 1860, at the age of twenty-three years, and there entered one hundred and sixty acres of government land, to which he added a tract of similar size by purchase. In the fall of that year he returned to Coshocton county and resumed work at his trade in Orange. On landing home from his 1860 tour he had just three shillings left with which to commence business again.

On the 2d of March, 1861, Mr. Wolfe was united in marriage to Miss Harriet A. Emerson, one of four children born of the marriage of Timothy and Annora A. Emerson. Five children blessed this union, namely: Nora E., the wife of H. C. Davis, a resident of Great Bend, Kansas; Lulu L., the wife of George Peacock, of Coshocton; Claridon C., who died April 22, 1881, at the age of sixteen years; Minnie L., the wife of George Walters, of West Lafayette; and Ina M., the wife of Bert Leightninger, now operating a lumber and planing-mill in West Lafayette.

Following his marriage Mr. Wolfe worked at shoemaking in Orange for nine years, with exception of four months in 1864, while serving as fourth corporal in Company E, One Hundred and Forty-second Ohio Volunteer Infantry. In the spring of 1870 he went to Chase county, Kansas, where he owned three hundred and twenty acres of land as previously stated, and it was his intention to remove his family to that locality the following fall, but while making arrangement to erect a house and other buildings upon his farm he received a telegram saying that his wife was dangerously ill, and he left everything and returned home. His wife recovered but was unwilling to give her consent to their removal west, and they located on a farm of one hundred and fifty-nine acres in Oxford township, which land her father gave them. Here Mr. Wolfe erected a fine residence and for a number of years he engaged in the cultivation and improvement of the place, but owing to ill health, he finally rented the farm and removed to Emerson Mills, where he engaged in the boot and shoe and general grocery business for four years. After closing out this business at Emerson Mills, he rented his farm for three years, cash rent, and with Ina, his youngest daughter removed to Coshocton, where he bought a fine residence property, residing here until his daughter Ina married and left him alone. He then batched it for three months, when he rented his property and moved his effects to his daughter Ina's at West Lafayette, Ohio. Since then he has practically lived a retired life, being in ill health, leaving the management of his farm to his daughters and their husbands, who now receive the income from the farm, and he still lives with his daughter Mrs. Leighninger in West Lafayette. His wife died January 20, 1881, and was laid to rest in West Lafayette cemetery.

Mr. Wolfe has traveled quite extensively over this country, spending four months in Kansas and Nebraska in 1860, when Indians and buffaloes were still numerous in that section. Later he again visited Kansas as previously stated, and in the spring of 1888 he and his daughter Ina left home and for two years and forty-three days traveled throughout the west, spending some time in various states and territories and going as far north as British Columbia. In 1906, he again went west and spent eleven months in Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Iowa.

Mr. Wolfe gives staunch support to the republican party but never sought nor desired office. He is a member of the blue lodge of Masons, No. 175, at New Comerstown, Ohio, in which he has filled all of the chairs save that of worshipful master, and he has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church for thirty-eight years, now connected with the church at Coshocton. Seventy-one years have come and gone since Mr. Wolfe first opened his eyes to the light of day in Coshocton county and in the intervening period he has been a prominent factor in the advancement of commercial and agricultural life of the section of the state in which he has always made his home. He is widely and favorably known and his history cannot fail to prove of interest to his many friends, and it is therefore with pleasure that we present his record to our readers.

GEORGE ALVIN HAY.

George Alvin Hay finds an appropriate place in the history of those men of business and enterprise in Ohio, whose force of character, whose sterling integrity, whose good sense in the management of complicated affairs and marked success in the establishment of industries, have contributed in an eminent degree to the development of the resources of Coshocton. His name is inseparably interwoven with the commercial and industrial progress of the city and in political service he has done that for his city which has caused him to be designated as one of the best mayors Coshocton has ever had. He is now the president of The Houston Hay Axle Company and is associated with various other business concerns.

Mr. Hay is one of Coshocton's native sons, his birth having here occurred November 16, 1855. His parents were Houston and Delia Cook (Roberts) Hay, the former of whom died March 28, 1900, and the latter February 22, 1896. After attending the public schools of this city, George A. Hay spent two years as a student in Denison University at Granville, and then became a junior in Princeton College, where he completed the classical course in 1879, winning the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Following his return to Coshocton he took up the study of law and was admitted to the bar. He followed the practice of law, in which he was successful, owing to the fact that the office was destroyed by fire, Mr. Hay gave up the practice and on the basis of his experience in rebuilding and remodeling he started a carriage business. The Houston Hay & Sons was organized in 1895, when it was named after its founder. It is today one of the largest carriage companies employing eighty-five men and has a reputation in the manufacture of the country.

While Mr. Hay has not confined his attention solely to the carriage business, other fields whereby the city has been enhanced. In 1893 he started the business of growing and manufacturing cigars, which proved a growing industry. He started with ten cigarmakers and twenty-five people. In 1900 he had a prosperous career in that line and was a director of The Buckeye Piping Gas Company. Mr. Hay resigned in 1907 the business and was supplying the city with gas. He was also a director of The H. D. Commercial National Bank, both in Coshocton and in Cleveland.

On the 8th of June, 1882, they had five children: Edna, born June 17, 1892; Ruth Warwick; Charles, born June 17, 1894; Walter Guilbert, born in 1900.

Mr. Hay is a member of the Coshocton Club. He is an enthusiast on the subject of baseball and in witnessing a good game of baseball is one of his favorite haunts. He is also well known in the local band for fifteen years an active member of the tenth Regiment, Ohio National Guard, in making his band the best in the county. He is known in political circles. In 1880 he was made a member of the county committee. The following year he was elected to fill the position of clerk of the court, the most active and helpful part of his life in the county. In 1880 he was elected clerk of the court although Coshocton was at the

Mr. McCormick gives stalwart allegiance to the men and measures of the republican party, has served on the board of education for two terms and has also held the office of assessor. He is identified with the Grange, No.

the United Presbyterian church, with which his wife is also affiliated. Both Mr. and Mrs. McCormick are widely and favorably known throughout the being almost coextensive with the circle of their acquaintances.

Mrs. Olive (Maxwell) Wolfe is a representative of the farming interests of Coshocton county and one of its native daughters, for her birth occurred within its borders, September 23, 1857. Her parents were William and Mary (Highy) Maxwell. Her father was born in Heath, Massachusetts, while her mother's birth occurred in this county. William Maxwell arrived in Coshocton county when about seven or eight years of age and was here reared amid the wild scenes and environments of pioneer life. For many years he continued to carry on farming in this locality, remaining an active factor in the work of the fields until his life's labors were ended in death in March, 1893. His widow survived him for about twelve years and passed away in August, 1905. They were the parents of seven children, namely: Mrs. Maxwell; Montgomery, who is living in this county; Lucy, the wife of Everett Boyd, also of this county; George, who likewise makes his home in Coshocton county; and three who are deceased.

In her father's home Olive Maxwell was reared and was trained to the duties of the household, while in the public schools she acquired her education. In 1879 she became the wife of George L. Wolfe, who was born in Oxford township in 1836. His parents were Jacob and Elizabeth (Leighninger) Wolfe. The father was born in Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, in 1802 and was brought to Ohio by his parents in 1806 when the state sheltered many more red men than white inhabitants. Its forests were uncut, its land uncultivated, and it seemed that the work of civilization had scarcely been begun in its borders. Here Jacob Wolfe was reared and aided in the arduous task of developing a new farm. Having attained his majority he married Miss Elizabeth Leighninger, a representative of one of the old families of Oxford township and they became the parents of four children: Margaret, ted in marriage to Miss Columbia lams township, May 13, 1864, her

Sarah, Hiram and George. The mother died in August, 1879. The father, Jacob Wolfe, was a member of the Baptist church and an earnest consistent Christian gentleman whose honesty was never questioned. He was moreover a most industrious citizen and in his old age worked as though he was still in the prime of life. He was one of the oldest residents in Oxford township at the time of his demise.

His son, George Wolfe, was reared in this county, attended the public schools and early became familiar with the task of tilling the soil and caring for the crops. Throughout his entire life he carried on farming and he met with good success in that undertaking. In early manhood he married Anna Foster, a native of England, and unto them were born three children: Elmer J., Aurelia D., and one who died in infancy. The death of Mrs. Anna Wolfe occurred in 1877 and her remains were laid to rest in White Eyes cemetery. Later Mr. Wolfe wedded Olive Maxwell, as previously stated, and unto them was born a son, Irvin M., who is yet at home. He is a graduate of the West Lafayette College, where he pursued a scientific course and is now operating the home farm. Everything about the place is indicative of his careful supervision and practical methods. The father, George Wolfe, was a most energetic agriculturist and owned a beautiful farm in the midst of which he erected a fine residence. He also placed thereon the various barns and outbuildings necessary for the shelter of grain and stock and he kept good grades of cattle and horses, while in the work of the fields he won success by his practical methods. His political allegiance was given to the democracy, but he preferred to enjoy the pleasures of home rather than to participate actively in the work of office holding. He died July 17, 1908, leaving a widow and one son to mourn his loss, his remains being interred in Wagner cemetery. Mrs. Wolfe and her son still reside upon the home farm, which is a valuable and attractive property and constitutes one of the pleasing features of the landscape.

S. HILTON BUKER, M.D.

Having carefully prepared for the practice of medicine and surgery, Dr. S. Hilton Buker located in Spring Mountain in 1887 and since that time has continually demonstrated his ability and skill as is manifest by the large and lucrative practice which he today enjoys. He was born near Otsego, Muskingum county, Ohio, February 11, 1865, a son of Decatur and Lucy (Barnard) Buker. The family history dates back to 1492, in which year representatives of the name removed from Turkey to England, whence they emigrated to America about 1700. The paternal grandfather, Israel Hilton Buker, was born in Maine, in 1756, and enlisted for service in the Revolutionary war at the age of eighteen years and was associated with Lafayette, by whom he was presented with a sword. He was discharged in 1783 as sergeant of the Third Massachusetts Regiment, his discharge papers being signed by George Washington and now on file in the national capital. The Abner McCoy did his full share in the development and improvement of a tract of land of four hundred acres and it was only during a few weeks of the winter months that he was permitted to attend school, therefore his advantages in that direction were very limited. Mr. McCoy began life on his own account on the farm which has always been his home, this being one of the largest and most productive tracts of land in Coshocton county. In addition to doing general farming he also raises stock on quite an extensive scale, keeping only that of the highest grades.

Mr. McCoy was married on the 18th of October, 1871, to Miss Elizabeth Meek, a daughter of Asa and Virginia Meek, residents of Virginia township. Their union was blessed with seven children, three sons and four daughters. The sons are George F., Asa and William A., while the daughters are: Virginia, the wife of Harvey Cox; Sarah J., the wife of Edward Dickinson; Margaret B.; and Mabel V. The wife and mother passed to her final reward February 26, 1908, and thus the community lost one of its most highly esteemed women and the household a devoted and loving wife and mother.

Mr. McCoy gives his political support to the democratic party and in 1887 was elected a member of the board of county commissioners, serving for two terms, or six years. He brought to the office sound judgment and good business sense, and in political circles is held in high esteem. He also served as school director for several years and at the present writing is a member of the township board of education. He is a public-spirited citizen, whose worth well merits the high regard in which he is uniformly held.

JACOB EDMOND WOLFE.

Jacob Edmond Wolfe, who follows farming in Tuscarawas township, is a representative of one of the oldest families of this county. Hardly had the work of improvement and development been begun when his grandparents settled in this part of the state. The Indians still visited the neighborhood and only here and there had a white man established a home and laid claim to the land, planting the seeds of civilization on virgin soil. The grandparents came from Pennsylvania in the year of 1812 and settled on White Eyes plains, where the grandfather acquired extensive landed properties.

There, amid the wild scenes of pioneer life, George Wolfe, the father of our subject, was reared. He was born in Pennsylvania and was therefore ten years of age when he came with his parents to Ohio. He assisted in the arduous task of developing a new farm and experienced many of the hardships and privations of pioneer life. After arriving at years of maturity he married Miss Annis Salyards, who was born in this county. They settled in Keene township, where George Wolfe, who was a tanner by trade, followed the tanning business for some years, meeting with excellent success in his undertakings. He also became one of the extensive farmers of the county, acquiring twelve hundred acres of land, which he managed in connection with his tanning business. He was a member of the democratic party and was also a deacon in the church. His interest in the church was so great that he failed to receive his episcopacy, a valued resident of the county in an advanced age of eighty-five.

Jacob Edmond Wolfe inherited the home farm in Keene township, and his strength permitted him to continue the farm, alternating his time between the schoolroom. He attended the school of Louisville, Ohio. In his advanced years, Jacob Wolfe managed the property after his father's death. He inherited the present farm in Keene township through inheritance.

He has made modern conveniences a substantial outbuilding and other things about the place.

In 1901 Mr. Wolfe was elected to this county, and they have since that time. Mr. Wolfe votes with the democratic party for four years. He was a member of the Men's Association and organized the township special road district. He was a trustee of the Methodist church. The work instituted by him, and in connection with the board of county.

No measure for the benefit of the community failed to receive his endorsement and cooperation and he was regarded as a valued resident of the county. He died November 11, 1886, at the advanced age of eighty-four years.

Jacob Edmond Wolfe, whose name introduces this review, was born on the home farm in Keene township, August 2, 1864, and as his age and strength permitted he assisted more and more largely in the work of the farm, alternating his time between the labors of the fields and the duties of the schoolroom. He attended successively the district schools, the high school of Louisville, Ohio, and the Keene Academy. As his father was then in advanced years, Jacob Edmond Wolfe took up the work of the home farm and managed the property. He continued to reside thereon for five years after his father's death or until the spring of 1891, when he removed to his present farm in Tuscarawas township—a property that came to him through inheritance. It is splendidly improved, being equipped with all modern conveniences and accessories. A substantial home, good barns and substantial outbuildings stand in the midst of well tilled fields, and every-thing about the place is indicative of his care and supervision.

In 1901 Mr. Wolfe was married to Miss Amelia Jones of West Lafayette, this county, and they have two children, Guida Maria and Dean Samuel. Mr. Wolfe votes with the democratic party and has served as township trustee for four years. He was president of the committee appointed by the Business Men's Association and the Good Roads Association of Coshocton county, who organized the townships of Tuscarawas, Jackson, Keene and Franklin into a special road district for the improvement of public highways. He is a trustee of the Methodist Episcopal church, in which he holds membership. The work instituted by his grandfather and carried on by his father is continued by him, and for almost a century the family name has figured in connection with the business development and agricultural progress of the county.

George W. Need has reached the very venerable age of eighty-nine years and is now living with his son in White Eyes township. His life has been one of business activity, characterized by straightforward dealing and wherever he has lived he has enjoyed the confidence and good will of his fellowmen. He was born in Harrison county, Ohio, March 3, 1819. James Monroe was at that time president of the United States and had only had three predecessors. Travel by the aid of steam, either on the railroad or on the rivers, was hardly known. In fact it had gone scarcely beyond the experimental stage. All of the great Mississippi valley was largely an

OXFORD TOWNSHIP.

OXFORD township is situated in the eastern part of the county and bounded as follows: On the north by Adams township, on the east by Tuscarawas county, on the south by Guernsey county and Linton township and on the west by Lafayette township. The Tuscarawas river flows through the northern part of it from east to west. Several small streams enter it from the north, the most noticeable being Evans creek. There are no tributaries from the south. The level White Eyes plains having a width of from one to two miles stretch across the township just south of the river. South of this the surface is rough and the streams flow in an opposite direction from the river, to Wills creek. This latter stream in one of its tortuous meanderings enters Oxford township from Linton and cuts off fifteen or twenty acres from the body of the township. The soil on the plains is usually gravelly with a sandy loam in patches. A clay soil covers the southern hills while that of the river bottoms is the usual rich loam. The timber which grew upon the hills was vigorous and of varied kinds including sugar, oak, walnut, hickory, poplar and other less important varieties. Sycamore was the prevailing type in the lowest river bottoms while just above this was found the heaviest and best timber in the township. The plains as a rule were scantily timbered, if at all, and were doubtless the haunts of the game-seeking red man. That they frequented the plains and the valley which skirts the river is made manifest by the numerous relics which have been found here. Tomahawks, bullets, stone mortars and pestles, various silver ornaments and pieces of pottery were often picked up by the early settlers. Small mounds, too, were scattered here and there along the valley, indicating that the pre-historic race also had dwelt here ages ago. One of these mounds, standing on Willis Richard's farm on the western side of the township, was about thirty feet in diameter originally and eight or ten feet in height but modern cultivation has removed nearly every trace of it.

Oxford township was organized in the fall of 1811, very soon after the county was formed. Its original boundaries included a large portion of the eastern part of the county, but it was gradually reduced in size by the organization of other townships until it reached its present limits in 1835. The first, second and third sections are military sections; the fourth or northeastern section consists of congress land, and was surveyed in 1803, by Alexander Holmes. The first or northeast section was probably located by Matthew Denman, as he had possession of it very early and sold portions of it to incoming settlers. The original proprietor of the second or northwest section was William Steel, of Essex county, New Jersey, whose patent dates February 11, 1800. James Williams, of Annapolis, Maryland, was the original proprietor of section 3. His patent is dated March 21, 1800. None of these land owners became residents in the township, but sooner or later sold it to those who settled here.

There is no doubt that one of the first settlements in Coshocton county was made in Oxford township, yet it seems impossible at this time to determine definitely the date at which it was made. Hunt's Historical Collections says: "It is believed by some that the first settlement made in the county was made in this township. It would seem that, at all events, the same season Charles Williams was raising his corn on the prairie. Isaac and Henry Evans and Charles and Esaias Baker, all from Virginia, were raising a crop on the Tuscarawas, near Evansburg. Williams had come up the Muskingum, and the four above named had come down the Tuscarawas." It is known that Williams was living on the prairie as early as 1801, and probably a year or two before. Charles Baker, a son of Esaias Baker, now living in Linton township, states that his father, his father's brother Charles, and Isaac and Henry Evans, came out together from Virginia at a time when there was not a white man on the Tuscarawas river, but he is unable to give the year. Lewis Corbit, of Adams township, tells that his father, Robert Corbit, emigrated Loos on the east, was here in 1811. James Lisk came about the time the Junkins did. He married a daughter of John Junkins and afterward a Miss Price, who is still living in this township. Mr. Lisk was an early school teacher.

Milling facilities were no better here in pioneer days than elsewhere on the frontier. In fact, this being one of the earliest settled districts, the first white men were obliged to travel further to get a little grinding done than the first settlers of most other townships. As late as 1812, Zanesville and New Philadelphia were the usual milling points. Years before this, Esaias Baker and Isaac Evans, having heard that there was a power mill near Zanesville, loaded a canoe with corn and started for it. When they reached the mill they found it to be quite a patent affair. "Two canoes had been fastened just at a ripple in the river and a small paddle-wheel set between the two boats, and this, turned by the rippling waters, furnished the power to turn a large-sized hand-mill."

Isaac Evans erected the first mill in the township. It was built about 1818, on Evans creek. It was a little affair, with one run of buhrs, but answered very well the purpose for which it was intended. A saw-mill stood at the same place. They changed possession repeatedly, and were abandoned about twenty-five years ago.

About twenty years ago a large grist-mill was built on the canal, about a mile west of Orange, by John Wolfe and Timothy Emerson. John Wolfe is the present owner.

George Loos erected a little distillery on his place soon after he moved into the township. He died in 1821, and his son, Christopher, ran it for many years. A number of years later Mr. Shank operated one for ten or twelve years, on the Susanna Appis place, in the western part of section 19. Another was built on the canal about 1848, by Patrick Tregent, an Englishman.

The Cadiz road was the first one constructed through the township, and, in early days, was a principal highway of travel and emigration, so much so that several taverns flourished here for awhile in close proximity to each other. The first one was Philip Wolfe's at the corners.

Daniel Loos relates that when his father moved out from Pennsylvania, in 1811, Mr. Wolfe came out a distance with a team to help him over some of the big hills in Tuscarawas county. He was keeping tavern at that time. His tavern sign was a picture of General Washington mounted upon a white horse, an emblem which then, doubtless, appealed loudly to American patriotism. George Leighninger tended bar here for a while, but afterward bought a farm close by and moved upon it.

John Jenkins soon after hung out a large wooden "blue ball" to the gaze of the passer-by, inviting him to partake of the entertainment provided within, about a mile west of Wolfe. This was an important place in those days. Jenkins was postmaster for a great many years and also a justice of the peace, and the township elections were held here at his tavern.

Moses Morgan, about 1820, opened a third tavern about a half mile east of Wolfe's tavern. When he sold the place some ten years later, to Mr. Stewart, the tavern was abandoned.

A ferry was established very early at John Miskimen's place, in the eastern part of the township. It was kept for a number of years by Adam Fletcher, and afterwards by the father of Judge Burt. After Evansburg was laid out and became a little business center, a ferry was kept here for a number of years. Moses Morgan and John B. Stout were the chief manipulators of the ferry-boat at this point.

The first bridge built in the township was at Miskimen's. It was built about 1854, and cost $10,000. This was afterward disturbed and somewhat rebuilt. The river having, in 1861, cut a new channel about three-quarters of a mile to the east, a new bridge became necessary, the cost of which was about $9,000. The bridge at Orange was built in 1870. The masonry, of which N. W. Buxton was contractor, cost $8,311; the superstructure (iron) was contracted for by J. H. Davenport. It cost $7,253.

The Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis railroad passes through the township, east and west, crossing the Tuscarawas river near the eastern line. It has one station in the township—Oxford, near the center of the township. The Ohio canal crosses the township north of the river. In was erected in 1875, at a cost of $2,200. It was erected mainly by the efforts of John Richmond and J. B. Peck. The society was formed of members from other congregations in the neighborhood. The membership at present is small.

The Union Methodist Protestant church is located near the center of the township, on the Cadiz road. The house of worship was erected twenty or more years ago, upon a lot donated for the purpose by Henry and William Wolfe. Before it was built services had been conducted in the Union school-house close by. The first meetings were held in Moses Morgan's barn, where about 1840, shortly after the class was formed, a great revival was held. Among the earliest members were Moses Morgan, Joseph Mulvain, John Stout, Joseph Evans, and Jenkin Whiteside. The membership is now about fifty. Rev. Wells is the pastor.

White Eyes Baptist church is situated about a fourth of a mile east of the Union Methodist church. It was organized in 1825 and until 1870 was connected with the West Lafayette Baptist church. An account of this church up to the date of separation has been included in the history of the West Lafayette church and need not be repeated. The congregation still worships in the brick church erected in 1850 which is in good condition. The membership is about forty. Since 1870 there have been but two pastors in charge, Elders E. B. Senter and F. Hodder. The latter ministers to the church at this time. The Sabbath-school is well kept up but like most other organizations of the kind in the country is held only during the summer. Joseph Keims is its superintendent.

A German Lutheran church stands just this side of the county line in the southeastern part of the township. It is a small frame building built about ten years ago. The congregation is very limited in point of number and belongs principally to Tuscarawas county. Mr. Hockenbraugh is a leading member from this township.

Near the northeastern corner of the township stands a United Brethren church known as Everall's church which was built many years ago.

The principal early members were John Everall and wife, John Mackey and wife, James King and wife, and Thomas Smith and wife. Its condition is prosperous.

A small congregation of Disciples have for several years been holding services at McCune's school-house in the southern part of the township.

A United Brethren society existed years ago in Orange. Preaching commenced there about 1853 in the school-house and was continued about twelve years. The society then disbanded; cause, loss of membership and a minister who proved to be a wolf in sheep's clothing. The principal members were John Richmond, William Maxwell and John Norman.

A Methodist Protestant church at one time flourished in Evansburg. A brick church was erected but never finished. The village declined and the members removed to other places. Services were then held for a few years in Orange but they ceased many years ago.

THIS is one of more than a score of townships in Ohio that commemorate the name and achievements of Commodore Perry on lake Erie. It was organized in 1817, at a time when his naval glory was still fresh in the minds of the people. The township, as then erected, was ten miles long and five wide, including what are now Perry and Bedford townships. This territory had previously been a part of New Castle township, which was organized at the formation of the county. The elections in Perry township were held at the house of Elias James, almost centrally located as the township then existed, until 1825, when Bedford township was formed and Perry was reduced to its present limits, five miles square, being township 5 of range 9, according to the original survey of the military lands. It is located in the western part of the county and is bounded on the south by Pike and

GEORGE WOLFE.

JACOB WOLFE.

Supposed to be the oldest twins living in the State of Ohio.

Their parents were Phillip and Margaret (Waggoner) Wolfe, who were born in Cumberland county, Pa., March 7th, 1773, and Nov., 18th, 1778, and were married June 9th, 1796. They emigrated to Oxford township, Coshoc-ton county, O., in 1810. They were the parents of twelve children, all of whom became respected and useful members of society, as follows:

Anna Mary, born August 20th, 1797; Margaret, born August 22d, 1799; Jacob and George, born April 3d, 1802; Samuel, born October 10th, 1804, and died March 15th 1875; Philip, born October 29, 1806, died October 11, 1854; Elizabeth, born December 11, 1808, and died December 28, 1875; David, born July 23, 1811, died Apr. 15, 1862; John, born August 29, 1813; Perry C., born July 20, 1815, died May 24, 1857; Henry, born February 11, 1819; William, born February 27, 1821. The father died September 9, 1825; the mother, September 27, 1855. At this writing, May 21, 1882, the combined ages of the six surviving members of the family is 438 years, an average of 73 years. The twins at their advanced age are both rugged, and good each for a moderate day's work. George says that he feels a little tired as he is now traveling in his 81st year. Jacob delights in talking over his California experience in California's early golden days.

In looking over the old German family record we found that the signs of Zodiac were carefully recorded at the birth of each member of the family. The German Bible and record was presented by the mother to Mrs. Fred-rickey (Long) Loos.
