SCHOOL ATHLETICS & SCHOOL SPIRIT

We wish to express our highest regards to the boys who have participated in the school athletics. A school means very little without athletics. Centre College, a small college in Kentucky, which is practically unknown, went up to Yale and outfought as well as out-played them, gaining a victory of 6-0. This shows the fight the team had; also the spirit of the student body.

EDITORIAL

Many boys came out for athletics just to make a letter, to enjoy the trips with the team. This shows very little interest in representing a school. There are many boys who aren't in shape to play athletics just because they are not careful of their health. One of the reasons is the use of tobacco; another reason is they haven't their minds on athletics but on something else. If a boy can't sacrifice anything then he shouldn't come out for athletics. Many of the players are guilty of these faults and they should be over-powered. So come on boys lets show some pep and spirit, and over-come our opponents. Lets show the coach the student body, and the public that we can keep in shape and go out there and fight to win. We may be out-classed but we will not be out-fought.

As for the student body of both Junior and Senior High, it is only fair that we get behind the team and help them win by being present at the games and in this way show that we are with them.

The Juniors mentioned what they were going to do in basket ball season, so why don't the rest of us show them what we can do, if we decide upon anything.

A player, when out for athletics builds up his body, and keeps his mind on things which are altruistic. This has been proved many times. School athletics are very important to a school. A boy should come out for at least one sport while in High School.

 "Julius Ceasar" Studied by Sophomores.

The Sophomore English Classes

have just completed a thorough study of the play "Julius Caesar" by Shakespeare. This study included the life of Shakespeare and the study of the theatre during the Elizabethan age. Several interesting reports were given on Shakespeare. The Elizabethan age, costumes of that period, and the life of Julius Caesar.

After completing the study of Shakespeare we started the story paying special attention to the plot, setting, and characters. Main parts of the story were read in class, having different members of the class impersonate the parts. This made the play more interesting and easier to understand.

The study of words and quotations was also very interesting. Several times we answered the roll with quotations from this play.

Last we had the projects. Among the many objects made by the students were: miniature theatres showing the stage, pit and galleries. There were swords made in different Roman patterns, and several Roman roads. The booklets and posters showed pictures of Roman times.

The soap carvings were most numerous as they portrayed various characters of the play. A very clever project was a Roman chariot with tiny wooden horses. Then of course we had Caesar's goat.

I am sure every Sophomore understood and appreciated this play more since this study, and we are very grateful to Miss Conn for her patience and help in this study.

EXAMINATIONS EXEMPTION ANNOUNCED

Mr. May called an assembly Fri. morning November 24, at which time he made an important announcement concerning the examinations which will be held on Dec. 21-22.

All pupils having an average of above 90% will be exempted from their examinations. There are still three more weeks of school left in which some students will be able to raise their grades and be exempted. We are all glad that the date for examinations is before Christmas Holiday's as we will be having such a happy vacation that many would forget material of importance and would have to be studying when they should be enjoying the vacation.

SCHOOL TIME CHANGED

Mr. May also called another assembly in the afternoon to ask whether we should want the school hours changed, the schedule being the following:

9:00 to 12:00---1:00 to 4:00
We were asked to discuss this with our parents and see what their views were upon the question. Some would rather adopt this new plan because they would not need to go to school so early. Others desire that it be as it is as there would be fifteen more minutes at the noon-hour for those who have to walk quite a distance for their lunches.

Monday morning, each home room teacher received enough ballots for his pupils, at which time the schedule which our parents preferred were checked by the pupils.

BASKET BALL

Basket ball season started in full swing Monday, November 29. Forty boys reported to Coach "Ducky" Schroeder for the first basket ball session. Since we have McCall, our only letterman back, a smooth working machine should be built around him. The height of the team this year is very moderate.

Mr. Schroeder has a new plan in effect this season. The varsity consists of Juniors and Seniors and of any under-classmen, provided they are skilled enough. If a Junior or Senior fails to show his worth, he is dropped from the squad.

Mr. Schroeder has changed from zone defense to man-to-man defense which makes one man responsible if his man makes a basket. Zone defense proves very effective on a small floor but very harmful on a large floor.

N.H.S. has back quite a few men who saw considerable action with the cage team of last year. They are: Floyd Fisher, John Fletcher, and Dean Palmer. The team will be made up of these boys and some of the reserve team of last year. At the present there are twelve on the varsity squad who are receiving constant practice. There are also twelve on the reserve squad who practice four evenings a week.

The basket ball schedule for the semester are:

Dec. 8	T	West Lafayette
Dec. 9	H	Dennison
Dec. 15	H	Senecaville
Dec. 16	T	Caldwell
Dec. 23	H	New Concord
Jan. 5	H	Carrolton
Jan. 6	T	Byesville

The eighth grades are now beginning the study of the Civil War. Come around and you'll smell the powder, and if you are careful you may dodge the bullets! Mr. Barthalow made a survey and learned that the grandfathers of twenty-one of the eighth graders had worn suits of blue for the Union in this great war.

Miss Fletcher's class in 7th grade history wrote and directed some plays of their own last week.

The 8th grade literature class is now studying Edward Everett Hale's great story of patriotism, "The Man Without a Country."

A QUAIN OLD LADY

One eve. last week, I visited a queer old lady. She was dressed in a long, old-fashioned, black, satin dress. Her hoary hair was covered with an incomprehensible hat. Her wrinkled weazened face looked weary. Her perpetual miscellaneous talk was very perplexing. During that long uninteresting ~~ev~~, I heard many mysterious obscure noises which I could not comprehend. I could stand her weird laugh and those mysterious noises no longer, so I bade her good-nite and quickly left.

PATIENCE

It is Helen Keller, who is blind and deaf and dumb, who wrote these brave words: "Life is full of homely tasks, plain duties, ordinary and humdrum employment. There are various ways to do our part. One does his with grim endurance, another frets and nags and scolds and storms. Still another whines complains, and weeps over the hardness of his lot. But he who goes to his work, whatever it may be, with a brisk and merry heart turning it this way and that to get the play of sunlight upon it is the one who will accomplish most, the one who will find joy happiness flowering ever in the path before him, and who will have not a sour and doleful memory of uncongenial labor, but a mosaic of sunshine, tree shade, brook-murmur, beauty, fragrance, upon which to turn the eye of his mind for all the remainder of his life."

Dorothy Edwards spent Thanksgiving with her grandparents at Howard, Oh

Billie Hootman was a visitor at the Hartwood Country school last Fr

Bertha Ellen Neighbor spent Thanksgiving with her grandparents Attica, Ohio.

Jack Cainor visited friends??? in Newark Thanksgiving Day.

Martha Hootman was the Thanksgiving guest of friends in Caldwell.

Mr. Barthalow and Mr. Cooper spent their Thanksgiving vacation in Athens, Ohio.

Max Straus visited with relatives in Columbus last week.

Janice Dawson visited with friends recently in Coshocton.

Margie Hendershot and June Twymar spent their vacation in Belmont.

Josephine Lenzo was the guest of friends in Cleveland during Thanksgiving vacation.

June Latham visited over the week end with friends in Cambridge.

Ann Davis spent her Thanksgiving vacation visiting with relatives in New Jersey.

Dec. 22nd will end our 3rd period of school and also the first semester. Our semester examinations will be given on Thurs. the 21.

There will be no exemptions except for those who have made 100% in spelling during the entire semester.

We trust that all pupils are working diligently not only for grades but to know the things required of them.

Pupils often work for grades forgetting that many things worth knowing can not be measured by grades.

"Happy" Keifer seems to get along very well with the girls in Mr. Barthalow's room. We know he is a "ladies' man".

SPORTS

This week basketball begins in Junior High. Two periods each week and a few practices after school are devoted to the boys of the 8th grade. We are very glad to have Mr. Carl Shroeder for our coach again this year. A number of inter-class games will be played later on in this season.

We wish to thank Miss Roof and Mr. May who have made it possible for us to have a team.

ELECTION RETURNS!

The Current Event election held by the eighth grades went overwhelmingly Federalist. With the exception of one office, every Federalist candidate received a majority vote. The new officers who are to begin their terms this week are:

President--Clarence Huntsman (F)
Vice. Pres.--Ann Davis (W)
Secretary--Florence Steffen (F)
News Editor--Helen Treasure (F)

The new President has appointed Ruth Leighninger as song leader, and Jane Ashelman, pianist.

SEVENTH GRADE HONOR ROLL

Beverly Barnhouse, Elizabeth Brode, Emily Dillehay, Dorothy Edwards, Wilda Lee, Mary Knezevich, Carolyn Leighninger, Wesley Mugford, Bertha Ellen Neighbor, Robert Portz, Martha Schupp, Edith Carol Trees, Paul Wolff, Ruth De Ring, Jessie Burdett.

A comparison--Mutt and Jeff have nothing on Dorothea Starker and John Heller.

THE FUNNY SIDE

John M.--Miss Roof, can you punish a boy for something he didn't do?

Miss Roof--Why of course not, John, why?

John--Well, then, I didn't do my homework in English.

Clarence H.--Do you like bathing beauties??

Billy G.--I don't know, I never bathed any.

Our daily treat--A free lecture by Mr. Barthalow.

YOU TELL US-----

Why Therma Swigert likes a back seat so well.

Why Grace pretends to dislike John McPerk.

Whether Bud still likes Josephine

What John Heifner's big attraction is in the hall. He's always there.

Whether Billy Warner went rabbit hunting.

Who Jack Gamor always winks at when he passes the 8th grade door.

Why Gladys Laughlin has become so quiet lately.

How many times June Latham voted for herself as cheer-leader.

If Robert Brode really does like the girls as much as he really pretends to.
