400 WELCOME CY YOUNG HOME

Pay Unusual Homage To Ex-Pitcher

Between 400 and 500 admirers of Cy Young, one of the greatest baseball pitchers of all times, attended the celebration held last evening at the Young residence near Peoli to welcome the honored guest home from Boston, scene of many of Young's conquests on the baseball diamond.

The visitors came from every section of the countryside to pay tribute to the veteran "Cy." An evening's entertainment furnished by the West End Saxophone orchestra, this city, the Star Accordion Wizards of Dover, Jesse Springer, local magician and Charles Humphreville local oano artist.

A cafeteria style lunch was served on the spacious front lawn of the Young home, after which the guests enjoyed open house. Mr. Young turned over his home for inspection.

1931 COUTS REUNION

The annual reunion of the descendants of William Coutts of Peoli was held Monday, Sept. 7th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Coutts of near Peoli. The forenoon witnessed the gathering of the many members and friends of this pioneer family, and at noon one long table was laden with a picnic dinner fit for a king. After the sumptuous dinner a short business meeting was held which resulted in the election of the following officers: Harry Mitchell of New Philadelphia as president of the organization; Rev. W. L. Coutts as vice-president and Miss Minda Coutts of Canton as secretary and treasurer. The time and place of next year's reunion to be announced by the officers and committee in charge of the program. After the business session a program of vocal and instrumental music, readings and addresses was given by members and friends. The pleasant gathering was favored with talks by Rev. King of Peoli, Rev. W. L. Coutts and Harry Mitchell. There were 145 members and friends of the family registered at this year's reunion. Before the final adieus, the happy gathering was served with ice cream, cake and lemonade.

The Lord is my Shepherd:

I shall not want . . . He maketh me to lie down in green pastures . . . He leadeth me beside the still waters . . . He restoreth my soul. He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His Name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil for Thou art with me. Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies. Thou anointest my head with oil, my cup runneth over . . . Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in the House of the Lord forever!

Where the mourner weeping
Sheds the secret tear,
God, His watch is keeping,
Though none else be near.

He will never leave thee,
All thy wants He knows,
Feels the pains that grieve thee,
Sees thy hidden woes.

All your grief and sadness
In this world below,
Balance not the gladness
They in heaven know.

God hath not promised,
Skies always blue,
Flower-strewn pathways,
All our lives through;

God hath not promised,
Sun without rain,
Joy without sorrow,
Peace without pain.

But God hath promised,
Strength for the day,
Rest for the labor,
Light for the way.

Grace for the trials,

ONE HUNDRED STORIES OF GUERNSEY COUNTY

By W. G. WOLFE, Superintendent Guernsey County Schools

THE LOST CHILD

One of the fears of the pioneer mother living in an isolated cabin in the backwoods was that her children might stray into the forest and become lost. In many sections there were no roads and but few paths. Unless it kept in sight of the house, a young child, lacking the sense of directions, might wander deeper into the woods when trying to find its way home. Then there was always the danger of wild animals against which it could not defend itself.

Many stories of lost children have been told. This is the story of one lost in the forests of Guernsey county more than a hundred years ago. The place was the northern part of what is now Monroe township, and the name of the child was Isaac Coutts.

William Coutts, the father of Isaac, located near the line that separates Guernsey and Tuscarawas counties, in 1817. That region was then a vast wilderness broken here and there by small clearings around lonely cabins. The nearest postoffice was at Washington, on Zane's Trace, fifteen miles south of the Coutts cabin, and it was here that the family received their mail and did their trading.

On Friday morning, July 23, 1825, Isaac, who was eight years of age, started alone to school which was held in a little log building across Rocky Fork creek, about one mile south of his home. He traveled a narrow path through the woods, carrying his lunch wrapped in a handkerchief.

When about half way to the school he imagined he saw a bear in the path ahead of him. Instead of turning back home he quickly slipped into the laurel which grew densely at that place, intending to make a detour around the bear and return to the path on the other side. This was exceptional courage and presence of mind for a boy as young as Isaac to display.

His detour was so great that when he came to the path it did not seem familiar. Thinking that he had reached the wrong one he again struck out through the laurel, losing the handkerchief which contained his lunch. He wandered on, not knowing how long or how far. It was afterwards believed that he followed Rocky Fork creek.

At length he came to a path, one that he had never seen before. He reasoned that this would take him to some habitation and he turned on it, but when he reached the top of a steep bluff, he found that the path came to an end. He realized that he was lost. He called for help, but received no response other than the reverberations of his own childish

Instead of wandering on as many a child would have done, he decided to remain where he was, hoping that he would be found. Between two trees that stood on the bluff was a hole made by the uprooting of another tree. Isaac gathered all the moss he could find and made a soft bed in this hole. Night came on, and with it, all the loneliness of the forest. Fearing wild animals he did not sleep. Only once was he disturbed; some beast approached his bed, gave a loud snort and sprang away.

Saturday morning found him hungry, thirsty and sleepy. He slept during most of the day. His opinion was that he would never be found, and he hoped that he might die. However, he remained in his mossy bed all day Saturday and Saturday night and until afternoon on Sunday, without food or drink.

On the Friday forenoon that Isaac left for school his older brother passed the school house on his way to mill. The teacher came out and asked him why "Ikey" was absent. Returning home the brother reported that Isaac was lost. Word was sent to the neighbors and all of Friday afternoon and night was spent in a fruitless search.

When Saturday morning came the news had spread for miles, and men left their work to assist in the hunt for the lost boy. During the entire day an unsystematic search was made, which proved to be ineffective.

On Sunday morning men and boys came on horseback—hundreds of them—and a consultation was held. Arrangements were made for a more minute search and it was agreed that certain signals should be given in case the boy was found. Hours were appointed for reporting as the search continued. There was much sympathy for the distracted family. The child had now been lost for two days and two nights in the deep forest, and it did not seem probable that he would be found alive. As the squads returned at intervals with no news, the mental agony of the Coutts family became intense.

About two o'clock on Sunday afternoon a group of searchers from the Odell neighborhood, not far from Sugar Tree creek, came by chance near the bluff where Isaac lay. It was about three miles back in the forest from the Coutts cabin. Their attention was attracted by a weak "Hullo" made by the boy.

"Big Jim" Willis, a giant of the Odell squad of searchers quickly climbed the bluff and gathered Isaac in his arms. Not knowing the signal, they did not give one until the Beal cabin was reached, a half mile south of the child's home. About 600 men and boys were engaged in the hunt at the time, and many of them were at the Coutts home trying to decide upon some plan of action, when the signal was given.

The news that the boy was found and was alive and well spread like wild fire. As the signals indicating this fact were relayed there was cheering for miles. When "Big Jim" Willis carried little Isaac into the Coutts cabin, the mother and a sister fainted away. The excitement was so intense that strong men broke down and wept like children.

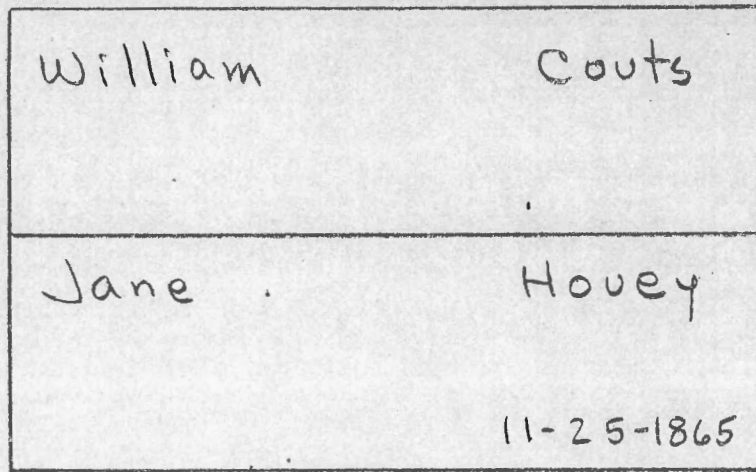

Isaac Coutts lived to be 90 years of age. That he was courageous when a youngster is shown by this incident. That he was precocious is evidenced by the fact that he could read when four years old, and that, at the age of eight, he had studied through the dictionary two times, this and a Bible being the only books the family possessed.

When 16 years of age he began clerking in a store at Birmingham. Here he received instruction in mathematics from his employer and Dr. Van Horn. He then entered Madison College at Antrim, one of the first to be enrolled there, for a course in surveying. After two weeks of study he was told that he could be taken no further in that subject by the teacher there. For more than 50 years he did surveying in northern Guernsey and southern Tuscarawas counties. His death occurred in the former county in 1907.
