Meet Our Director

Bob Gregory, director and choreographer of Bring Out the Stars is the senior director of Cargill Company of New York. In show business since age 3, Gregory broke into the limelight at age 14, when he won the part of Dexter in Kiss and Tell on Broadway; later he earned a part in Gentlemen Prefer Blondes, dancing with Carol Channing. Other productions he has performed include Tea and Sympathy and West Side Story.

A dancer and actor by training, Bob eventually took his on stage experience into the realm of directing and has been with Cargill Company in this capacity for over 30 years. His work has taken him to most of the 50 states, as well as throughout much of Canada. Prior to joining Cargill, he also traveled with the USO in the service, working to stage and direct shows in countries throughout western Europe.

Gregory has produced over 220 shows for Cargill, and for each show he is on the road for three to four weeks. In each production, he takes amateur talent and in several weeks transforms the performers into a professional troupe providing a show with the glitz and glitter of Broadway. When not traveling with a Cargill Company production, Gregory makes his home in Daytona Beach, Florida.

"This production is not intended to advance the art of the theatre. None of our cast have Hollywood or Broadway as their objective. Our members, husbands and friends are donating their time and talents and having a "lark" playing theatre, hoping to give you a good time and more importantly, to make a nice profit for our 100 Club.
